

Josh Anderson (Film: 3-17-21 vs. St. Mary's)

He looked reluctant to shoot the ball on the offensive but found his spots in an efficient manner. On the defensive end, he took his man entirely out of the game. His length was a problem for anyone that tried driving on him. His ability to play help-side defense while still contesting his man's jumper is an elite trait of his. He should be crashing the defensive boards more, utilizing his elite athleticism and length to secure rebounds. He had a big defensive possession as a help-side defender, with a minute left to force the jump ball and gain possession for his team.

Overall, this was a solid performance for Anderson. He was active all night on defense as his man could not do much against his length. Anderson finished with an efficient 10 points on 4-5 from the field and 2-2 from 3; he also had 3 rebounds, 2 assists, 2 steals, and 1 block, filling up the stat sheet.
