

KJ Simpson vs Florida 3/22/2024 – Film

Offensively, he was a blur in the open court, quickly advancing into the front court. He used his quick first step to get to the basket off the bounce and had a nice backdoor cut for an easy And1 layup. Additionally, he knocked down a catch-and-shoot three from the left wing. Simpson showcased his playmaking skills by setting up teammates in transition, executing drive-and-kicks, post entries, and delivering a nice bounce pass in PnR action to the roller.

Defensively, he struggled to stay in front of the opposing guards, which is surprising given his speed in the open court, raising questions about his effort. He failed to fight over picks and didn't stay attached to his man off the ball. Despite these issues, Simpson was active on the defensive glass, pulling down five rebounds.

He demonstrated impressive offensive capabilities, particularly in transition and playmaking for teammates. However, his defensive performance was lacking, struggling to stay in front of their guards and showing a lack of effort in fighting through screens.
